1	anonymous	The atmosphere and learning environment is like no other. All of the teachers and staff go that extra mile to ensure that the children have the best school environment and education.
2	anonymous	The way the staff care about parents aswell as the kids
3	anonymous	Welcoming and friendly always go above and beyond and great support for the children
4	anonymous	The care and support you offer each child at school.
5	anonymous	Ethos, location and size. The teachers go the extra mile bit there could be more parental involvement/ community/ culture
6	anonymous	Constant updates on my child's progress, the wonderful location and activities available for my child, the support from the teachers and good communication with day to day catch ups
7	anonymous	Staff
8	anonymous	Small, close-knit, more like a family. The school itself is based in a beautiful rural setting in a village with a tight-knit community who fully supports the school. The teachers always have time to talk, and are always open to any suggestions made by parents.

1	anonymous	There's more that could be done to break away from the standard curriculum and offer a truly unique experience to stand out as the special school it could be. Given the unique setting and size this could attract a bespoke way of teaching that breaks away from the norms and promotes individuality.
2	anonymous	I would strongly recommend Combs infant school, it is an excellent school and my son is thoroughly enjoying his time there. He has progressed immensely since joining and we're very pleased with his progress and the support given by all the staff there Miss Sweatmore gives us regular feedback and is great at organising and encouraging the students who attend.
3	anonymous	I feel the children that are meeting the reading expectations are not given as much one to one so they can push above expectations.
4	anonymous	Combs infant school and all its staff go above and beyond to support the children and their families. An absolute credit to the headteacher and governors, and the staff should be immensely proud to call Combs infant school their school.
